Writing after War John Limon,1994-07-07 In Writing After War John Limon develops a theory of the relationship of war in general to literature in general in order to make sense of American literary history in particular Applying the work of war theorists Carl von Clausewitz and Elaine Scarry John Limon argues that The Iliad inaugurates Western literature on the failure of war to be duel like to have a beautiful form War s failure is literature s justification American literary history is demarcated by wars as if literary epochs like the history of literature itself required bloodshed to commence But in chapters on periods of literary history from realism generally taken to be a product of the Civil War through modernism usually assumed to be a prediction or result of the Great War up to postmodernism which followed World War II and spanned Vietnam Limon argues that despite the looming presence of war in American history the techniques that define these periods are essentially ways of not writing war From James and Twain through Fitzgerald Faulkner and even
