The Trouble with Snack Time Jennifer Patino, 2020-08-18 Uncovers the class and race dimensions of the cupcake wars In the wake of school lunch reform debates heated classroom cupcake wars and concerns over childhood obesity the diet of American children has become a crisis and the cause of much anxiety among parents Many food conscious parents are well educated progressive and white and while they may explicitly value race and class diversity they also worry about less educated or less well off parents offering their children food that is unhealthy Jennifer Patino embedded herself in an urban Atlanta charter school community spending time at school events after school meetings school lunchrooms and private homes Drawing on interviews and ethnographic observation she details the dilemma for parents stuck between a commitment to social inclusion and a desire for control of their children s eating Ultimately Patino argues that the attitudes of middle class parents toward food reflect an underlying neoliberal capitalist ethic in which their need to cultivate proper food consumption for their children can actually work to reinforce class privilege and exclusion Listening closely to adults and children s food concerns The Trouble with Snack Time explores those unintended effects and suggests how the crisis of children s food might be reimagined toward different ends
