Innovative Software Development in GIS Benedicte Bucher, Florence Le Ber, 2013-05-21 At a time when people use more and more geographic information and tools the management of geographical information in software systems still holds many challenges and motivates researchers from different backgrounds to propose innovative solutions Representing geographical space beyond our mere perception is key to making relevant decisions whether it is with respect to sustainable development or to the planning of everyday activities Designing sharing and exploiting such representations entails many challenges This book presents recent software design projects led in teams which sometimes have different backgrounds to address these challenges It analyzes the specificities of these projects in terms of motivation data models and analysis methods Proposals are also put forward to improve resource sharing in this domain Geographical Data Imperfection 2 Francois Pinet, Mireille Batton-Hubert, Eric Desjardin, 2024-03-19 Geographical data often contains imperfections associated with insufficient precision errors or incompleteness If these imperfections are not identified taken into account and controlled when using the data the potential for errors may arise leading to significant consequences with unforeseeable effects particularly in a decisionmaking context It is then necessary to characterize and model this imperfection and take it into account throughout the process In the previous volume we introduced different approaches for defining representing and processing imperfections in geographic data Volume 2 will now present a number of concrete applications in a variety of fields demonstrating the practical application of the methodology to use cases such as agriculture natural disaster management mountain hazards land management and assistance for the visually impaired Téledétection et systèmes d'information urbains Françoise Dureau, Christiane Weber, 1995 Annual Report France.
