Historical Supernovae and Their Remnants Francis Richard Stephenson, 2002 Annotation This book reviews both the historical observations of supernovae SN seen in our Galaxy over the last two millennia and recorded in East Asia China Japan and Korea Europe and the Arabic dominions together with modern observations of the remnants of these supernovae Introductory chapters provide background information about the historical observations and our modern understanding of supernovae and novae and of supernova remnants SNRs and pulsars Subsequent chapters discuss the historical observations of the well defined historical SN and modern observations of their remnants These chapters cover Kepler's SN of AD1604 Tycho's SNe of AD1572 the SN of AD1181 the SN of AD1054 which produced the well known Crab Nebula and the especially bright SN of AD1006 One chapter discusses the young SNR Cassiopeia A and the proposed sighting of its SN in AD1680 by Flamsteed Earlier but less certain supernovae of the preceding millennium chronicled in China are also discussed along with their possible remnants Other less certain observations of historical SN and the future potential for additional historical observations are briefly discussed This book also includes as an appendix an up to date catalogue of over two hundred known Galactic SNRs

Supernova Or Graur, 2022-02-08 A concise illustrated introduction to the history and physics of supernovae the brilliant explosions of stars with striking color illustrations Supernovae are the explosions of stars They are some of the most energetic phenomena in the Universe rivaling the combined light of billions of stars Supernovae have been studied for centuries and they have also made appearances in popular culture a glimpse of a supernova in a painting provides Sherlock Holmes with a crucial clue for example In this volume in the MIT Press Essential Knowledge series astrophysicist Or Graur offers a concise and accessible introduction to these awe inspiring astronomical phenomena Graur explains that a deep observational understanding of supernovae why and how they shine and how their brightness changes over time allows us to use them as tools for experiments in astrophysics and physics A certain type of supernova for example brightens and fades in such a predictable manner that we can measure the distances to their host galaxies We owe our existence to supernovae they give us iron for our blood and calcium for our bones But supernovae may also have caused a mass extinction event on Earth 2.6 million years ago Graur shows how observations of supernovae played a role in the transformation of astronomy from astrology to astrophysics surveys the tools used to study supernovae today and describes the lives and deaths of stars and the supernova remnants neutron stars and black holes they leave behind Illustrations in both color and black and white many from Graur's own Hubble Space Telescope data make this account of supernovae particularly vivid
