The Industrialisation Of Less Developed Countries

Alan B. Mountjoy

The Industrialisation Of Less Developed Countries:

The Industrialisation of Less Developed Countries, 1983 The Industrialisation of Less Developed Countries Colin H. Kirkpatrick, F. I. Nixon, 1983 Essays on direct foreign investment and industrialization trends in developing countries discusses theoretical background industrial policies for import substitution and export oriented industrialisation role of multinational enterprises in industrial growth and technology transfer impact on self reliance etc includes a cost benefit analysis of the textile industry in Nigeria and case studies of the Nigerian tyre rubber industry pharmaceutical industry in Colombia foreign capital in manufacturing in Brazil and Pakistan etc References Industrialization and Development Tom Hewitt, Tom R. Hewitt, Hazel Johnson, David Wield, 1992 The restructuring of industrial production the international division of labor and continual technological change place developing countries in a global process of industrialization This book clarifies the positive and negative aspects of this process and examines two different theoretical approaches used to achieve industrialization The book first focuses on the international economy through examining in detail two relatively successful Third World industrializers Brazil and South Korea and then shifts its emphasis to the specific aspects of industrialization such as technology gender relations culture and the environment Industrialization and Under-developed Countries Alan B Mountjoy, 2023-11-06 First published in 1966 Industrialization and Under Developed Countries traces the distribution causes and problems of under development and from the point of view of the economic geographer goes on to examine the difficulties and possibilities of industrialization as a remedy Particular emphasis is laid upon the demographic factor both in the world situation and as affecting the way of life of individual countries This book will be of interest to students of economics and geography Industrialization and Underdeveloped Countries Alan B. Mountjoy, 2017-07-12 The volume of relevant research and literature on this topic is growing but originates mainly from economists sociologists and political scientists geographers have been slow to make contributions One reason may be that geographers have been preoccupied with differentiation within the geography of production whereas this new field directs attention to the geography of consumption and a study of economies This book aims to focus attention on the complex and inter related problems social economic political and geographical that come with development placing particular emphasis on the problems which accompany attempts at industrialization Focusing on the complex and interrelated social economic political and geographic problems that attend under development this book presents one of the first contributions from a geographer on what has been called the most important economic problem of the modern world Contending that industrialization is no answer for under developed countries that are striving to maintain expanding populations and to strengthen their economy Alan B Mountjoy traces the distribution causes and problems of under development and the difficulties with and possibilities for industrialization as an aid in solving those problems He defines development and under development considers problems of industrialization including environmental and human problems discusses the forms industrialization takes and analyzes the progress of industrialization in specific under developed areas The unique geographer s perspective and the ability of the author to select aspects of the study that most clearly reflect the problems of under developed economies make this work a useful text and reference book for students and scholars of development economic geography and international relations
