the humanities today and the humanities tomorrow

It may no longer be necessary to argue that the academic humanities are facing a crisis—but our conversations about that crisis rarely progress beyond acknowledging it. How can, and how should, the humanities meet the challenges facing academic labor, institutions, and ideas?

In this lecture, James F. English (the University of Pennsylvania) will offer both scholarly and institutional perspectives on the humanist present and what scholars, departments, and institutions dedicated to the humanities can do to secure a humanist future.

The Humanities Today:

The Humanities Today Albert William Levi, 1970 Five lectures delivered at the University of Notre Dame in June 1968 Includes bibliographical references Defining the Humanities Robert E. Proctor, 1998-12-22 Think of this as The Thinking Man's Bloom or The Thinking Woman's Closing of the American Mind It takes up debates about education and reasons about them where Bloom often only blasted away This is one of the more helpful recent statements of the case for the classics accompanied by rather venturesome curricular suggestions Christian Century His exciting readable book calls for a return to a study of the classics and of the Renaissance poets and scholars like Petrarch who rediscovered the classics Michael Dirda Washington Post Book World a splendid statement bringing together in a careful and coherent way the prospects for a solid humanities curriculum Ernest L Boyer Ten years ago when this book was first published it was called Education's Great Amnesia Reconsidering the Humanities from Petrarch to Freud It is being reissued now in a second edition with a different title for a new generation of readers who cannot have forgotten what they never knew What are the humanities Can we agree on a core curriculum of humanistic studies Robert Proctor answers these questions in a provocative readable book Energy Humanities. Current State and Future Directions Matúš Mišík, Nada Kujundžić, 2020-11-02 This edited book explicitly deals with the energy humanities summarising existing knowledge in the area and outlining possible future directions for the nascent field Assuming a variety of disciplinary stances and using a plethora of methodologies to address a number of pressing energy related issues the individual contributions showcase the crucial importance of including the humanities and social sciences into the current discussion on energy Furthermore they illustrate one of the central claims of the energy humanities namely that energy permeates all aspects of our contemporary modes of existence and is inextricably linked with historical political social ideological and cultural issues relationships and practices Through numerous case studies Energy Humanities and Energy Transition looks to the past present and future in search of examples of best practices and possible models for pathways to a successful energy transition and life after oil While much of existing research on energy humanities has been criticised for its excessive focus on oil this book considers a wide range of energy resources including nuclear energy renewables and natural gas Furthermore it brings to the forefront under researched topics such as the colonial legacy inscribed in energy infrastructure and the energy history of the humanities The contributions in this volume explore not only how the perspectives and expertise of the humanities and social sciences can alter the discourse on energy transition and our way of thinking about possible solutions and future scenarios but also how their new focus on energy affects the disciplines themselves Energy Humanities and Energy Transition presents a variety of theories methods topics and disciplinary angles meaning it will be of interest to a wide audience from practitioners and policy makers to students and researchers working across the humanities and social sciences The thematically oriented structure distinct focus of each individual chapter and the comprehensive introduction and conclusion that contextualize the contributions
