Wandering Willie's Tale (with Apologies to Sir Walter Scott) ,1921      Great Short Stories: Detective, Ghost, Romance and Adventure Stories (Complete) Various Authors,1932-01-01 It was high holiday at Father Merlier s mill on that pleasant summer afternoon Three tables had been brought out into the garden and placed end to end in the shade of the great elm and now they were awaiting the arrival of the guests It was known throughout the length and breadth of the land that that day was to witness the betrothal of old Merlier s daughter Fran oise to Dominique a young man who was said to be not overfond of work but whom never a woman for three leagues of the country around could look at without sparkling eyes such a well favored young fellow was he That mill of Father Merlier s was truly a very pleasant spot It was situated right in the heart of Rocreuse at the place where the main road makes a sharp bend The village has but a single street bordered on either side by a row of low whitened cottages but just there where the road curves there are broad stretches of meadow land and huge trees which follow the course of the Morelle cover the low grounds of the valley with a most delicious shade All Lorraine has no more charming bit of nature to show To right and left dense forests great monarchs of the wood centuries old rise from the gentle slopes and fill the horizon with a sea of waving trembling verdure while away toward the south extends the plain of wondrous fertility and checkered almost to infinity with its small enclosures divided off from one another by their live hedges But what makes the crowning glory of Rocreuse is the coolness of this verdurous nook even in the hottest days of July and August The Morelle comes down from the woods of Gagny and it would seem as if it gathered to itself on the way all the delicious freshness of the foliage beneath which it glides for many a league it brings down with it the murmuring sounds the glacial solemn shadows of the forest And that is not the only source of coolness there are running waters of all sorts singing among the copses one can not take a step without coming on a gushing spring and as he makes his way along the narrow paths seems to be treading above subterrene lakes that seek the air and sunshine through the moss above and profit by every smallest crevice at the roots of trees or among the chinks and crannies of the rocks to burst forth in fountains of crystalline clearness So numerous and so loud are the whispering voices of these streams that they silence the song of the bullfinches It is as if one were in an enchanted park with cascades falling and flashing on every side The meadows below are never athirst The shadows beneath the gigantic chestnut trees are of inky blackness and along the edges of the fields long rows of poplars stand like walls of rustling foliage There is a double avenue of huge plane trees ascending across the fields toward the ancient castle of Gagny now gone to rack and ruin In this region where drought is never known vegetation of all kinds is wonderfully rank it is like a flower garden down there in the low ground between those two wooded hills a natural garden where the lawns are broad meadows and the giant trees represent colossal beds When the noonday sun pours down his scorching rays the shadows lie blue upon the ground vegetation slumbers in the genial warmth while every now and then a breath of almost icy coldness rustles the foliage Such was the spot where Father Merlier's mill enlivened nature run riot with its cheerful clack The building itself constructed of wood and plaster looked as if it might be coeval with our planet Its foundations were in part laved by the Morelle which here expands into a clear pool A dam a few feet in height afforded sufficient head of water to drive the old wheel which creaked and groaned as it revolved with the asthmatic wheezing of a faithful servant who has grown old in her place Whenever Father Merlier was advised to change it he would shake his head and say that like as not a young wheel would be lazier and not so well acquainted with its duties and then he would set to work and patch up the old one with anything that came to hand old hogshead staves bits of rusty iron zinc or lead The old wheel only seemed the gayer for it with its odd round countenance all plumed and feathered with tufts of moss and grass and when the water poured over it in a silvery tide its gaunt black skeleton was decked out with a gorgeous display of pearls and diamonds

Waverley Novels Walter Scott, 1814      Critical Discourses of the Fantastic, 1712-1831 Professor David Sandner, 2013-05-28
 Challenging literary histories that locate the emergence of fantastic literature in the Romantic period David Sandner shows that tales of wonder and imagination were extremely popular throughout the eighteenth century Sandner engages contemporary critical definitions and defenses of eighteenth and early nineteenth century fantastic literature demonstrating that a century of debate and experimentation preceded the Romantic's interest in the creative imagination In The Fairy Way of Writing Joseph Addison first defines the literary use of the supernatural in a modern and rational age Other writers like Richard Hurd James Beattie Samuel Johnson James Percy and Walter Scott influence the shape of the fantastic by defining and describing the modern fantastic in relation to a fabulous and primitive past As the genre of the purely imaginary Sandner argues the fantastic functions as a discourse of the sublime imagination albeit a contested discourse that threatens to disrupt any attempt to ground the sublime in the realistic or sympathetic imagination His readings of works by authors such as Ann Radcliffe William Beckford Horace Walpole Mary Shelley Walter Scott and James Hogg not only redefine the antecedents of the fantastic but also offer a convincing account of how and why the fantastic came to be marginalized in the wake of the Enlightenment      From Jane Austen to Joseph Conrad Robert C. Rathburn, Martin Steinmann, 1967 David Daisches Douglas Bush Robert B Heilman Arthur Mizener and William Van P Connor are among the contributors to this volume of essays on the nineteenth century British novel Each of the selections has been written expressly for this book and is part of The British Tale in the Early Twentieth Century Michael William Murphy, 1971      Catalogue of the Central Lending Library ... Birkenhead (England).
