Using Our Language:

Our Language Gordon Augustus Southworth, 1887 Using Our Language David Hubert Patton, 1953 Our Language Frederik Atherton Fernald, 1894 Our Language, 1894 Using Our Language ... Illustrated by Angus McInnes William Leslie DARLEY, 1966 Lectures on the English language George Perkins Marsh, 1874 Shadows of Syntax Jared Warren, 2020

What is the source of logical and mathematical truth? This volume revitalizes conventionalism as an answer to this question. Conventionalism takes logical and mathematical truth to have their source in linguistic conventions. This was an extremely popular view in the early 20th century but it was never worked out in detail and is now almost universally rejected in mainstream philosophical circles. In Shadows of Syntax Jared Warren offers the first book length treatment and defense of a combined conventionalist theory of logic and mathematics. He argues that our conventions in the form of syntactic rules of language use are perfectly suited to explain the truth necessity and a priority of logical and mathematical claims. In Part I Warren explains exactly what conventionalism amounts to and what linguistic conventions are. Part II develops an unrestricted inferentialist theory of the meanings of logical constants that leads to logical conventionalism. This conventionalist theory is elaborated in discussions of logical pluralism, the epistemology of logic and of the influential objections that led to the historical demise of conventionalism. Part III aims to extend conventionalism from logic to mathematics. Unlike logic, mathematics involves both ontological commitments and a rich notion of truth that cannot be generated by any algorithmic process. To address these issues, Warren develops conventionalist friendly but independently plausible theories of both metaontology and mathematical truth. Finally, Part IV steps back to address big picture worries and meta worries about conventionalism. This book develops and defends a unified theory of logic and mathematics according to which logical and mathematical truths are reflections of our linguistic rules, mere shadows of syntax.

Throughout the world, individuals in the intimacy of their homes innovate, improvise, and struggle daily to pass on endangered languages to their children. Elaina Albers of Northern California holds a tape recorder up to her womb so her baby can hear old songs in Karuk. The Baldwin family of Montana put labels all over their house marked with the Miami words for common objects and activities to keep the vocabulary present and fresh. In Massachusetts, at the birth of their first daughter, Jesse Little Doe Baird and her husband convince the obstetrician and nurses to remain silent so that the first words their baby hears in this world are Wampanoag. Thirteen autobiographical accounts of language revitalization ranging from Irish Gaelic to Mohawk, Kawaiisu to Maori are brought together by Leanne Hinton, professor emerita of linguistics at UC Berkeley who for decades has been leading efforts to preserve the rich linguistic heritage of the world. Those seeking to save their language will find unique instruction in these pages; everyone who admires the human spirit will find abundant inspiration.
