Factors Influencing Consumers' Intention to Purchase

Clothing Online Natalie Bluschke, 2011-04-05 Master's Thesis from the year 2011 in the subject Business economics Offline Marketing and Online Marketing grade 1.0 Thames Valley University London language English abstract This dissertation is a study in the area of e-commerce. The aim of this study was to examine the adoption of online shopping and online shopping for clothing in particular and factors influencing the intention to purchase clothing online. A quantitative research method was used and a questionnaire designed on the website www.surveymonkey.com and then distributed by sending out the link leading to the survey via Facebook and emails. 94 useful questionnaires were gathered from female and male UK students. SPSS 17 was used to analyse the collected data by conducting chi-square tests and Spearman's rho correlation tests to examine the relation between different variables. The constructs of the Technology Acceptance Model (TAM) were used as a framework and basis for this research and were extended by further constructs. Therefore, the impact of perceived usefulness, perceived ease of use, prior online shopping experience, perceived risk, and product involvement on the intention to purchase clothing online was analysed. Perceived usefulness, perceived ease of use, and prior online shopping experience had positive effects on the intention to purchase clothing online. Perceived risk had a negative effect on the intention to purchase clothing online. These findings supported the hypotheses. Other than hypothesised, clothing product involvement did not have a significant positive effect on the intention to purchase clothing online.

Utilitarianism Geoffrey Scarre, 1996 Surveying the historical development and present condition of utilitarian ethics. Geoffrey Scarre concludes that whilst utilitarianism may not be a faultless moral doctrine, its positions are relevant and remain significant today. Surveying the historical development and the present condition of utilitarian ethics, Geoffrey Scarre examines the major philosophers from Lao Tzu in the fifth century BC to Richard Hare in the twentieth century. Utilitarianism traces the doctrine of utility from the moralists of the ancient world through the Enlightenment and Victorian utilitarianism up to the lively debate of the present day. Utilitarianism today faces challenges on several fronts; it cannot warrant the drawing of adequate protective boundaries around the essential interests of individuals and it does not allow them the space to pursue the personal concerns which give meaning to their lives Geoffrey Scarre considers these and other charges and concludes that whilst utilitarianism may not be a faultless moral doctrine its positions are relevant and significant today Written with undergraduates in mind this is an ideal course book for those studying and those teaching moral philosophy "Man of Steel" and Utilitarianism. A Philosophical Perspective ,2021-06-21 Seminar paper from the year 2018 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Other grade 2 3 University of Koblenz Landau Anglistik course Imag in ing Justice Law Rights and Ethics in Popular Visual Culture language English abstract The main goal of this paper is to show how the film Man of Steel and the utilitarianism are deeply interconnected and how ethical dilemmas are taken up The goal of utilitarianism is to weigh the consequences of each committed act precisely and to select the course of action that leads to the greater amount of happiness and satisfaction for the greater number of people However this often ends in moral dilemmas such as in Man of Steel The question of the righteousness of the characters actions in this film keeps cropping up and makes the viewer reflect on whether Superman s actions are morally justified With this in mind I presume that the principle of utilitarianism runs like a golden thread through the entire film and that almost all characters in Man of Steel embody an attitude to utilitarianism be it the protagonist Clark Kent himself his stepfather Jonathan Kent or the antagonist General Zod I want to argue that the question of whether Superman should reveal himself to society and how to weigh the pros and cons of this issue plays a very important role in the film and represents the morality of each character I will analyze the movie in this regard in this paper proving how Man of Steel deals with these issues and shows that the message is not the demonstration of pure action but the study of the morality of the characters the possession of superpowers and the question of when they are to be used Journal of Consumer Satisfaction, Dissatisfaction, and Complaining Behavior ,2003

Utilitarianism John Stuart Mill,1895 Utilitarianism Katarzyna de Lazari-Radek,Peter Singer,2017-07-20

Utilitarianism may well be the most influential secular ethical theory in the world today It is also one of the most controversial It clashes or is widely thought to clash with many conventional moral views and with human rights when they are seen as inviolable Would it for example be right to torture a suspected terrorist in order to prevent an attack that could kill and injure a large number of innocent people In this Very Short Introduction Peter Singer and Katarzyna de Lazari Radek provide an authoritative account of the nature of utilitarianism from its nineteenth century origins to its justification and its varieties Considering how utilitarians can respond to objections that are often regarded as devastating they explore the utilitarian answer to the question of whether torture can ever be justified They also discuss what it is that utilitarians should seek to maximize paying special attention to the classical utilitarian view that only pleasure or happiness is of intrinsic value Singer and de Lazari Radek conclude by analysing the continuing importance of utilitarianism in the world indicating how it is a force for new thinking on contemporary moral challenges like global poverty the treatment of animals climate change reducing the risk of human extinction end of life decisions for terminally ill patients and the shift towards assessing the success of government policies in terms of their impact on happiness
