Interactive IR User Study Design, Evaluation, and Reporting Jiqun Liu,Chirag Shah,2022-05-31 Since user study design has been widely applied in search interactions and information retrieval IR systems evaluation studies a deep reflection and meta evaluation of interactive IR IIR user studies is critical for sharpening the instruments of IIR research and improving the reliability and validity of the conclusions drawn from IIR user studies To this end we developed a faceted framework for supporting user study design reporting and evaluation based on a systematic review of the state of the art IIR research papers recently published in several top IR venues n 462 Within the framework we identify three major types of research focuses extract and summarize facet values from specific cases and highlight the under reported user study components which may significantly affect the results of research Then we employ the faceted framework in evaluating a series of IIR user studies against their respective research questions and explain the roles and impacts of the underlying connections and collaborations among different facet values Through bridging diverse combinations of facet values with the study design decisions made for addressing research problems the faceted framework can shed light on IIR user study design reporting and evaluation practices and help students and young researchers design and assess their own studies so improving the level of confidence towards the system which can be relevant especially in safety critical contexts Lastly we show the benefits that can be gained from using task models in the usability evaluation phase through a systematic analysis of the impact that the deviations from an expected task plan could have on the quality of the overall system
