Assessment and Decision Making for Sustainable Transport European Conference of Ministers of Transport, 2004-03-10 This report makes recommendations for good practice bringing the results of economic appraisals and environmental assessments before decision makers in the transport sector on the basis of reviews of recent experience in infrastructure planning and policy development in seven countries

Managing Teacher Appraisal and Performance Carol Cardno, David Middlewood, 2002-11 This edited collection brings together the latest thinking on appraisal in schools from both the UK and overseas and places it directly in the context of school management

Climate Change and Political Strategy Hugh Compston, 2013-09-13 Although the science of climate change is well established and there are well known policy instruments that could significantly reduce greenhouse gas GHG emissions without prohibitive economic costs political obstacles to more determined action remain despite heightened concern among mainstream politicians and the public This book analyses the political dynamics of climate policy in affluent democracies from a number of different theoretical angles in order to improve our understanding of which political strategies would be likely to enable national governments to make deep cuts in GHG emissions while avoiding significant political damage The authors argue that different conceptual and logical theories highlight different features of political situations Describing the politics of climate policy in this way will result in different conceptual logical views of this phenomenon And to some extent the inferences drawn from such differing views about the nature of political obstacles to more vigorous action on climate change and the best ways of overcoming them will also be different. Singly and together these analyses reveal a more detailed nuanced view of the political options open to activist governments. This book was previously published as a special issue of Environmental Politics.

Multi-level Planning & Integrated Rural Development in India Rameshwar Prasad Misra, K. V. Sundaram, 1980

Sustainable Development and Integrated Appraisal in a Developing World Norman Lee, Colin H. Kirkpatrick, 2000 It is widely recognized that sustainable development can only be achieved if environmental economic and social issues are combined in development plans policies and programmes. This book examines the integrated approach to the development process and analyses the theory and practice of integrating assessment techniques and decision making. The editors begin by presenting a comprehensive introduction to integrated appraisal in development strategies as well as outlining issues which are important to the future understanding and practical application of integrated appraisal. A group of authors from a range of disciplinary and country backgrounds then present alternative perspectives and methods of an integrated approach to sustainable development and apply integrated appraisal to a variety of case studies from developing and transitional countries. This book will be warmly welcomed by development policymakers and consultants in government and non government organizations as well as academics and postgraduates working in the fields of economics development and environmental studies
