Castle,1995 The literature on rural America to the extent that it exists has largely been written by urban based scholars perpetuating out of date notions and stereotypes or by those who see little difference between rural and agricultural concerns As a result the real rural America remains much misunderstood neglected or ignored by scholars and policymakers alike In response Emery Castle offers The Changing American Countryside a volume that will forever change how we look at this important subject Castle brings together the writings of eminent scholars from several disciplines and varying backgrounds to take a fresh and comprehensive look at the forgotten hinterlands These authors examine the role of non metropolitan people and places in the economic life of our nation and cover such diverse issues as poverty industry the environment education family social problems ethnicity race religion gender government public policy and regional diversity The authors are especially effective in demonstrating why rural America is so much more than just agriculture It is in fact highly diverse complex and interdependent with urban America and the international market place Most major rural problems they contend simply cannot be effectively addressed in isolation from their urban and international connections To do so is misguided and even hazardous when one fourth of our population and ninety seven per cent of our land area is rural Together these writings not only provide a new and more realistic view of rural life and public policy but also suggest how the field of rural studies can greatly enrich our understanding of national life Agriculture and Human Values ,2002

Technology and Innovation for Social Change Satyajit Majumdar,Samapti Guha,Nadiya Marakkath,2014-12-04 Tension exists between technologists and social thinkers because of the impact technology and innovation have on social values and norms which is often viewed as damaging to the cultural fabric of a nation or society Since the global business environment is the context in which implementation of technology and innovation takes place it is widely accepted as the major reason for such conflicts In this backdrop this edited book integrates independent research from across the globe It deals with the nature and significance of technology innovation and social change as well as the relationships between them and discusses the significance of social entrepreneurship from social innovation and technology perspectives Research areas covered are related to the development and deployment of technology innovation and knowledge in social change capabilities of institutions models role of government and corporate social responsibility and community involvement Multiple aspects of social change are discussed in the context of India Mexico Thailand Cambodia Laos Vietnam Ethiopia Nigeria and other African countries But society does not silently accept technologically enforced changes sometimes technology is seen as an enemy of inclusive growth and for many economic development is an anti thesis of social change Selected case studies on sector specific technologies such as the use of genetically modified seeds in agriculture which has impacted the market and society are critically analyzed to develop insights into the adoption of technology and its impact At the same time it examines policy related issues without any bias in favor of or against a specific technology

The Social Consequences And Challenges Of New Agricultural Technologies Gigi M Berardi, Charles C Geisler, 2019-07-11 Although formal social impact assessment of changing technologies in U S agriculture is still in its infancy scholars have been documenting the effects of new technology throughout the twentieth century In this collection Professors Berardi and Geisler bring together historically relevant research and a carefully chosen cross section of contemporary work Their review of the literature is followed by an evaluation of the effects of mechanization on labor and production written in 1904 which provides a backdrop for papers from the 1940s and 1950s examining the mechanization of agriculture in the South in the Midwest and in rural areas in general Subsequent chapters offer present day insights on such topics as the socioeconomic consequences of automated vegetable and tobacco harvesting center pivot irrigation and organic and no till cultivation The authors also look at compensation and adjustment programs for displaced labor the relationship between technology and agribusiness growth and the effectiveness of university programs that prepare students to perform social impact assessments in agriculture The edited proceedings of a spirited roundtable discussion on new directions for the study of the social impacts of farm technology and the political economy of agriculture provide the thought provoking conclusion to this overview of the field
