Telecommunications In Canada An Analysis Of Outlook And Trends:

Telecommunications in Canada Steven Globerman, Deborah Carter, Fraser Institute (Vancouver, B.C.), 1988 From the back cover The telecommunications industry in several important and dramatic ways does not fit the stereotype of a service industry In particular it is a relatively capital intensive industry that has enjoyed well above average rates of productivity growth Technological changes affecting the industry in recent years have been marked and have spawned new communications activities such as cellular radio The employment growth generated in the industry has been associated with an increase in average educational levels rather than a significant deskilling that numerous observers of the service sector worry about The prospects are for continued performance along these lines However continued government restrictions on competition in the industry could thwart the realization of many of the benefits of productivity and technological change on both the supply and demand sides of the market International Books in Print, 1995 Barbara Hopkinson, [Anonymus AC01401231], 1995 Canadian Books in Print, 1993 Cumulative Index to Foreign Production and Commercial Reports United States.
