Villages in the Landscape Trevor Rowley,1978      Villages in the Landscape Trevor Rowley,1994      Medieval Villages in an English Landscape Richard Jones,Mark Page,2006 The village one of the keystones of the English rural landscape has a powerful hold on the imagination This book is the result of the Whittlewood project addresses a key problem for historians the origin of nucleated dispersed settlements It is useful for scholars students enthusiasts of English landscape history

Landscapes, Documents and Maps Brian K. Roberts,2008-10-10 The last half century has seen many studies of the origin of the English village As a cross disciplinary enquiry this book integrates materials from geography history economic history archaeology place name studies anthropology and even church architecture These provide varied foundations but the underlying subject matter always engages with landscape studies Beginning with a rigorous examination of evidence hidden within the surviving village and hamlet plans seen on eighteenth and nineteenth century maps the first half of the book shows how these can be classified mapped analysed and then interpreted as important parts of former medieval landscapes Many specific case studies are built into the argument all being drawn from the author s lifetime work on northern England and accessible language is employed From this base the argument develops with the objective of integrating landscape studies with the descriptive and analytical practices of history and drawing these together by using the cartographic methods of historical geography This foundation leads gently into deeper waters to the landed estates in which all settlements developed and the farming and social systems of which they were a part to the land holding arrangements that were integrated into the physical plans providing methods of sharing out the agricultural resources of arable meadow woodland and common grazings and finally to the social divisions present within a changing society A wholly new theme is found in the argument that certain types of land tenure were associated with a class of officer land agent or dreng who in northern England was often linked with the provision of tenants for new villages It is clear from the evidence amassed that the deliberate founding of new villages and the establishment of new plans on older sites was taking place in the centuries between about AD 900 and 1250 Finally the study moves beyond the North of England to review the European roots of planned villages and hamlets and concludes with a challenging hypothesis about their origin in the whole of England This provides pointers towards future enquiry      Beyond the Medieval Village Stephen Rippon,2008 Stephen Rippon explores the origins of regional variations in the character of the landscape of southern Britain arguing that while some landscapes date back to the centuries either side of the Norman Conquest other areas across southern Britain underwent a profound change around the 8th century AD

Chinese Landscapes Ronald G. Knapp,1992-01-01 The studies collected in this volume were written by anthropologists architects geographers historians a sociologist and a veterinary ecologist Taken together they form an exceptionally coherent survey of Chinese villages ranging from the dry north to the humid southeast and southwest of this vast country Going beyond books on Chinese vernacular architecture that focus on individual dwellings this work examines the village ensemble itself the various settings for the habitation work and leisure of China's large rural population. Discussions of design spatial layout, physical setting, settlement patterns, geomantic principles, fengshui, and evolutionary patterns set the stage for eighteen village case studies. Many villages still preserve characteristics that evoke a respect for and understanding of old China, while others expose the drastic metamorphosis of recent decades. Villages are examined as places emphasizing that which is visible; each village has its own order and complex of natural and human elements. Chinese Landscapes, though it focuses on the physical appearance of individual villages as they are situated within the constellation that comprises the Chinese landscape, suggests much about more general social, economic, and political patterns.

The traditional concept of human beings believes that culture is a social phenomenon, a product created by human beings for a long time, and at the same time a historical phenomenon which is the accumulation of human society and history. The technical, economical, and cultural nature of art design determines that only with high social and economic development can art and culture flourish. Art design is the product of the combination of art and technology. Art design is also a kind of productivity which promotes the development of social economy.
