The Politics of Education in Developing Countries Samuel Hickey,Naomi

Hossain,2019 This book focuses on how politics shapes the capacity and commitment of elites to tackle the learning crisis in six developing countries It deploys a new conceptual framework to show how the type of political settlement shapes the level of elite commitment and state capacity to improving learning outcomes

The Quality of Education David W. Chapman,Donald K. Adams,2002 This volume is part of the series Education in Developing Asia It examines dimensions and strategies regarding the quality of education

Education Quality and Social Justice in the Global South Leon Tikly,Angeline M. Barrett,2013-06-07 Drawing on state of the art evidence about implementing education quality in low income countries this book opens up the black box of the classroom and explores how practices of teaching and learning impact on different groups of learners in the global South

Educational Choices and Schooling Quality in Developing Countries Marine Le Mau de Talancé,2017 This thesis aims at better understanding the multiple aspects of education in developing countries with a focus on Indonesia and Pakistan First we show that compulsory education could positively impact educational attainment and change fertility behaviours even though these effects can be heterogeneous Then we consider the multifaceted notion of quality of education If we consider that the quality of education encompasses only learning outcomes teachers play a central role in knowledge acquisition However this measure is unsatisfactory when trying to understand schooling behaviours Indeed student achievement only partly explains parents opinions Parents also tend to be subject to an ex post rationalization bias and to value private schools more The subjective dimension of the quality of education helps to understand school choice Parents dissatisfaction with public schools partly explains why they send their children to private establishments Nevertheless the expansion of the private education sector could increase gender and socio economic inequalities

Learning, Marginalization, and Improving the Quality of Education in Low-income Countries Daniel A. Wagner,Nathan M. Castillo,SuzanneGrant Lewis,2022-02-21 Improving learning evidence and outcomes for those most in need in developing countries is at the heart of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goal on Education SDG4 This timely volume brings together contributions on current empirical research and analysis of emerging trends that focus on improving the quality of education through better policy and practice particularly for those who need improved learning at the bottom of the pyramid LBOP This volume brings together academic research experts government officials and field based practitioners National and global experts present multiple broad thematic papers ranging from the effects of migration and improving teaching to the potential of educational technologies and better metrics for understanding and financing education In addition local experts practitioners and policymakers describe their own work on LBOP issues being undertaken in Kenya India Mexico and Ivory Coast The contributors argue persuasively that learning equity is a moral imperative but also one that will have educational economic and social impacts They further outline how achieving SDG4 will take renewed and persistent effort by stakeholders to use better measurement tools to promote learning achievement among poor and marginalized children This volume builds on the second international conference on Learning at the Bottom of the Pyramid LBOP2 It will be an indispensable resource for policymakers researchers and government thinktanks and local experts as well as any readers interested in the implementation of learning equity across the globe The first volume Learning at the Bottom of the Pyramid LBOP1 may be obtained at <http://www.iiep.unesco.org/en/learning-bottom-pyramid-4608>

Sustainable Development Disciplines for Humanity Shujiro Urata, Kazuo Kuroda, Yoshiko Tonegawa, 2022-12-08 This Open Access book provides eight problem solving lectures for sustainable development for people peace and partnerships Those are three of the five keywords for the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs people the planet prosperity peace and partnerships or the 5Ps Each of these lectures is classified into one of the keywords for SDGs and based on the history of social thought human development law education sociology and peace studies Further each lecture delineates the essence of each discipline when it is practically applied to development studies This book Sustainable Development Disciplines for Humanity along with its sister volume related to the planet and prosperity Society will be useful in studying development Interdisciplinary research is necessary to achieve the SDGs advocated by the United Nations Hence it is essential to learn the basics of individual disciplines as they each offer ample knowledge fostering problem solving through the accumulation of existing research This and its sister volume are the first comprehensive textbooks summarizing the essence of each necessary discipline to approach development studies from an interdisciplinary perspective In developing countries this book will provide access to development research for readers aiming to further develop their own nations Moreover in developed countries the book will provide access to problem solving research for readers seeking holistic solutions to complex social problems

Educational Costing and Financing in Developing Countries Jean Claude Eicher, 1984 This paper analyzes issues in the costs and financing of education in developing countries It focuses primarily on sub Saharan Africa and within that on Francophone West Africa After evaluating the educational cost data used in international comparisons the paper focuses on the special situation of African countries most of which experience severe financial constraints in their effort to achieve educational goals It examines the potential for reducing unit costs as a way of increasing enrollment within an existing budget and tapping private sources of financing for education The overall conclusion is that although the financial prospects are rather bleak in the poorest countries existing budgets could be used much more efficiently than at present Unit costs can often be significantly reduced and some changes in the pattern of subsidies to education may allow for a sizeable expansion of education within existing budgets

Educational Administration in India and Other Developing Countries Nirmal Bhagia,Dora Briggs,Sushma

Bhagia,1990 The Quality of Education and Economic Development Stephen P. Heyneman,Daphne Siev White,1986

Although for many years the emphasis in education was on growth and on the need to provide more classrooms increasing

attention has shifted recently toward the quality and value of the education being received This document contains two studies related to the subject of educational quality The first paper reviews the relevant research on this question and reveals that school quality has substantially greater effects on changes in students cognitive and behavioral outcomes in developing than in advanced countries It also finds that school quality seems to affect the lifetime earnings of all students regardless of the level of development of their countries The author concludes that in the long run the quality of schooling provided may be more important for the future economic prospects of developing nations than expanded access to poor quality education Nevertheless knowing that educational quality has an economic effect on development does not determine whether investments in educational quality will be successfully implemented This is the subject of the second study The author argues that educational systems proceed through a series of stages during which they are able to implement increasingly more complex educational investments
