

Wipe Under A Love

William Gaddis

Wipe Under A Love:

Sooner Margaret Christakos, 2005 Eschewing prevailing poetic fashion Sooner reimagines poetry as a kind of cubist fascination at times even a fascination with fascination itself In Sooner Christakos's most tender lucent book to date we find the delusory spiral reasoning of artistic schools the fluid politic of desire gender and domesticity the recurrent trials of revulsion and arousal all shined through Christakos's uniqueprismatic style to emerge in new striking and often dissonant syntaxes This is the music of a keenly tuned mind listening to all of its stations at once a poetry of menace and possibility clear sight and ambiguity love and darkness jealousy and light If to know is to feel precisely as another poet once suggested Christakos makes it clear the opposite may be just as true and that the devil is still in the details You don't know what you think or feel You only think and feel you know and wave from the window Praise for Christakos's last book Excessive Love Protheses It begs the question Is Margaret Christakos the love child of David Cronenberg and the queen of the confessional poets Sharon Olds Much of this writing shocks for its originality Georgia Straight Beautifully restrained poetry shot through with sardonic humour and rendered even more interesting by Christakos's seriously playful manipulations of language Calgary Herald

Space Between Her Lips Margaret Christakos, 2017-04-13 Space Between Her Lips presents the first selected works of one of Canada's most important poets of the last few decades Margaret Christakos writes vibrant exciting and intellectually challenging poetry She plays language games that bring a probing and disturbing humour to serious themes that range from childhood and children to women in contemporary techno capitalist society to feminist literary theory and so much more Gregory Betts introduction to the collection highlights her formal diversity and her unique combination of feminist and avant garde affinities He connects the geographies of her life including Northern Ontario where she was raised downtown Toronto where she studied with cutting edge authors and artists like bpNichol and Michael Snow and Montreal where she integrated with the country's leading feminist authors and thinkers with her polyphonic experimentation While traversing the problem of bifurcated identities Christakos is funny at a deeply semiotic level wickedly wry exposing something about the way we think by examining the way we speak of it In her afterword Christakos maps out a philosophy of writing that highlights her self consciousness of the foibles of language but also deep concern for the themes she writes about including her career length exploration of self discovery hetero queer and bi sexual sexualities motherhood self care and linguistic alienation Indeed Margaret Christakos is a whole body poet writing with the materiality of language about the movement of interior thought to embodied experience in the world

Subverting the Lyric rob mclennan, 2008-06 From one of the most prolific and engaged book reviewers in Canada over the past 15 years this collection of essays and reviews showcases the literary insight of rob mclennan The works of such Canadian poets as George Bowering Margaret Christakos and Barry McKinnon are addressed and analyzed as is the status of Canadian poetry as a whole Mclennan's own investigations into the craft of writing are uncovered as well Strikingly innovative and refreshingly communal this
